

Sale Stages of the Farmed Tilapia Distribution Chain

Most U.S. imports of tilapia are in frozen filets. These products largely come from China – the largest producer of tilapia followed by Indonesia and Taiwan. The second largest market, when converted into a whole fish equivalent, is fresh fillets – mainly from Central America. Frozen whole fish is the third largest commodity form imported. Much of this product comes from China and Thailand.

Urner Barry is the leading provider of actionable intelligence to stakeholders in the poultry, egg, meat, seafood, plant protein, and related segments of the food industry. From IOSCO-compliant benchmark wholesale price history, in-depth analysis of key market drivers, import and export trade data, global news, forecasting, and bespoke consultancy services, Urner Barry's distinguished team of trusted market experts and data scientists combined with our warehouse of proprietary data offers subscribers a 360-degree view of the markets.

Feedinfo serves as an animal nutrition and feed sector intelligence service for feed additive producers, feed manufacturers, integrators, and other players within the animal nutrition industry.